

DURHAM VS. LINDELL.

HENRY DURHAM, the man who recently resigned as vice-president of the Lincoln Republican club and joined the Democratic party, has replied to the challenge to debate issued by Cyrus Lindell, and the debate will probably excite a great deal of interest. Mr. Durham yesterday issued the following reply:

"I am in receipt of your challenge of recent date and hasten to accept the same, as I understand I am to take the affirmative of the question. 'Resolved, That it is more beneficial for the colored men of the United States to vote the Democratic ticket than it is to vote the Republican ticket.' I hereby name Judge O. W. Powers as my referee and he will have authority to make any further arrangements for me that may be necessary."—Salt Lake Herald, Oct. 9, 1895.

The Plain Double Dealer has two columns of clean white paper, headed "Democratic principles." This is very appropriate, Bro. Taylor; the Democratic principles are clean, pure, and untarnished. Now if you want to illustrate the G. O. P. principles, just print in those columns: "Whiskey Rings," "Star Route Frauds," "Salary Grab," "Silver Demonetization," "Trusts" and "Monopolies." Fill the clean white space up with black blotches, crooked lines and blunders, and you will have the Republican platform. It would be a telling object lesson, and you would be a great genius.

The Russian thistle has appeared in many new localities, particularly along railway lines from the northwest.

A NOTE SUCH.

A country minister remarked to his wife Sunday noon:

"There was a stranger in church this morning."

"What did he look like?" asked the wife, who was a woman first and a minister's wife afterward.

"I didn't see him."

"Then how did you know there was a stranger there?"

"I found a dollar bill in the contribution box."—Zion's Herald.

Still Hope.

Her grief was intense.

"How can I ever hold up my head?" she sobbed.

For a time no sound was heard, save the sound of her lamentations.

"How can I ever hold up my head?" Presently she grew calm and decided that there was no alternative but to take a smaller hat.

Next while she would make every effort to strengthen the muscles of her neck.—Detroit Tribune.

Frigid.

"Was it cool where you spent your vacation?"

"Cool? I should say it was. I went away for a couple of days and returned unexpectedly. I found the old farmer wearing one of my shirts and my straw hat, his two sons away at a picnic in my best clothes and his wife straining jelly through my white flannel coat, and all they said was, 'We hadn't been expecting ye hum so soon.' It was the coolest family I ever struck."—Life.

Patient—But I can't afford to ride a bicycle.

Doctor—Oh, you don't need to ride one.—Detroit Tribune.
